

Definition-Of-Done for Bibbla

- The program should be compilable.
- The program should have unit tests, and they should all run successfully.
- The GUI should be responsive, even when operations take a long time.
- A user should be able to search for books.
- A user should be able to view additional details about a book, including at what libraries the book is available.
- A user should be able to reserve a book.
- A user should be able to see all her reserved books.
- A user should be able to see all her loaned books.